

CAPITAL INVESTIGATING

the insured's choice - finest in the field

E-Witness Canvas

Using the power of social media, Capital Investigating is able to reach thousands of potential witnesses and gain specific and delicate loss information. The E-Witness Canvas is new, innovative and Capital Investigating is currently the only insurance services company delivering this unique product.

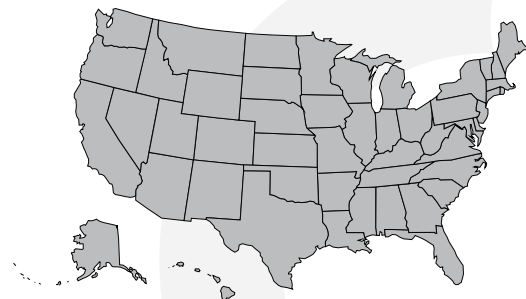

E-Witness Canvas has proven to be 8x more powerful than old fashioned door to door canvassing.

With everyone's busy schedules, you no longer have to hope that a witness hangs around and gives their name to a police officer or hope that a police officer collects enough contact information where follow-up is possible.

- Gain thousands of views from potential witnesses
- Search a specific geographic location
- Gain pre and post loss information
- Follow up research on witnesses and their relationships to the involved parties

National Coverage for All Social Media & Desktop Investigations

The Westbrook Police Department is asking any eye witnesses to the fatal motor vehicle crash from yesterday morning on County Road to contact the department.

We have a photo from the scene taken seconds after the crash by a witness that shows an unknown male subject standing at the driver's window of the taxi involved in the crash. The person from the photo had left the scene prior to being identified. We feel that this person might have witnessed the crash and we'd like to interview him. We do not suspect this person of an wrongdoing.

Witnesses should call Officer Brian Grasser at 207-854-0644 Ext. 2511.
